

---

THE MONTHLY REPOSITORY
OF
Theology and General Literature.

---

THE
MONTHLY REPOSITORY

OF THEOLOGY

AND

GENERAL LITERATURE.

---

POPULUMQUE FALSIS
DEDOCET UTI VOCIBUS.

Hor.

---

JANUARY TO DECEMBER, INCLUSIVE.

1809.

---

VOLUME IV.

---

LONDON:

Printed by C. Stower, Paternoster Row ;
FOR LONGMAN, HURST, REES, AND ORME, PATERNOSTER-ROW.
1810.

PREFACE.

---

WE cannot conclude the Fourth Volume of the MONTHLY REPOSITORY, without thanking the religious public for the liberal support which we have experienced, and assuring them that no effort shall be wanting to make the future volumes of the work worthy of their patronage.

The MONTHLY REPOSITORY is the property of no party. It is open to all inquirers. A cursory view of its pages will shew that it is a vehicle of Free Discussion, for intelligent persons of different opinions; and that the Editor has aimed, at least, to observe strict impartiality towards his various and numerous correspondents.

The purchasers of the present volume will be pleased to find that it contains an unusually large collection of Original Letters and Papers of eminent persons deceased. The Editor still possesses a considerable store of the same valuable materials, which will be brought forward in the succeeding numbers, as opportunity may serve; and he has the promise of further contributions of this kind, which will throw great light upon characters eminent in the history of literature and theology. He takes this opportunity to invite such as are in possession of similar documents, to communicate them to a Work, in which they will be preserved from oblivion, and presented to the eye of those that will know how to value them.

The Editor has particularly wished to make the MONTHLY REPOSITORY a Register of the Proceedings of the Philanthropic Societies, which so highly distinguish and adorn Great Britain. Benevolence is of no party; and an intimate knowledge of the active charities of all religious persuasions tends to abate the odium and rancour which have unfortunately prevailed in controversial theology.

The Monthly Repository is commended, under Providence, to the friends of Peace, Freedom, Truth and Virtue.

Hackney, Jan. 12, 1810.