THE LAND! THE LAND!! THE LAND!!!

TO THE WOBBING CLASSES. My FRIENDS,-Because the opinion is now becoming very prevalent that a greater "PANIC" than the country has yet encountered, is fast approaching: because the continuance of such an amount of trade as will ensure the tranquility of the working classes is wholly incompatible with that rule of political economy which teaches us that one in every three of a community is well able to supply all the wants of the whole community-and because we have an inanimate non-consuming producing power equal to eight hundred million pair of hands, while the population of the globe is but little more than eight hundred millions; because each succeeding " PANIC" must increase in calamity, in the exact ratio in which trade increases in amount; because vicisitudes in a manufacturing gambling country must be sudden. and, therefore, the people taken unawares; because I have on all occasions during my career been made the Beape-goat both by Government and those who would justify themselves at my expense when those sudden changes come and the leaders of the people are expected to do something ; because the strength of the popular party has never yet been marshalled in sufficient time to mould a great national convulsion to popular requirement ; because stringent and labour, as though the working classes-and not those the produce.

, who trafficked in their interests-had brought want -and starvation, and wee and desolation, on their own house : because a " PANIC" is the signal for a nnion of all with "a stake in the hedge," and because it should be also the signal for a union of all - who demand "a stake in the hedge"; because we ought now to be prepared with an immediate antidote for those periodical poisons administered by the "rich oppressor" to the "poor oppressed"; and because no man living, whether he be statesman. philosopher, political economist, or state financier. can possibly suggest any other antidote for the cure of production by a non-consuming power, than the LAND; because of all these things it is that I now address you on that subject.

During a temporary gleam of " prosperity" you dig out of his plot scores of waggon loads of stones. capital had every opportunity of preying on it. " Don't mix up the Charter with the Land." was looked npon as sincere and unalloyed Chartism ; while the bare mention of the soil was regarded as a part abandonment of the principle of the Charter. The failure of all Revolutions, whether moral or physical, has arisen from a similar admixture of ignorance and enthusiasm. Terror has been but too successful in driving common sense from the field. The MEANS was every thing ; the END nothing ; and hence have the means been frequently successful, while the end has never yet been attained. Fifthly .- Of a Scorbutic humour, with which I have been tormented at least 44 years, having been lame with it, several times, for months together This has been a very stubborn case. I do not know what I may have, but at present, I have not a sore spot, or a pain about me. I am now enabled to bless and praise God for his mercies in bringing to light such a restorative health and soundness of body. I am not like the same person as I was a year age being so much altered for the better.

All these cures have been effected in me, by the use of PARR'S LIFE PILLS.

We must add something to the foregoing. Our readers will remember that in the Star of the 14th of September, appeared a number of verses, giving a sort of suto-biographical sketch of the "Irish Girl"; the lines appeared without any title, though we can hardly may without a heading, as they were introduced to our readers by some prefatory remarks of our own. It appears, however, that the lines should have appeared 1 "Dedicated to David Auld, Esq., of Doonbrae." The omission was not our fault : still we regret it as we have reason to know that the gentleman in question . has, by his generous acts, rendered himself entitled to general approhation. We understand that Mr. Anld was one of the first to patronise the " Irish Girl," and that he has continued his kind assistance to the present ! time. We are informed that the "Irish Girl" is at the Ayr academy; and that for this, and many other acts of kindness she is indebted to Mr. Auld, To all who have drank at "Mungo's Well," and passed an hour in solemn pleasure and delight on the banks of to make known that that gentleman exhibits the sincerity of his homage for the mighty dead by his patronage and generous aid given to the humble and struggling living. There let him sleep, in Nature's arms, Her well-beloved, her chosen child-There mid the living, quiet charms Of that sequestered wild. He would have chosen such a spot. Twas fit that they should lay him there. Away from all the haunts of care; The world disturbs him not. He sleeps full sweet in his retrest-The place is consecrated ground; It is not meet unhallowed feet Should tread that sacred mound.

He lies in pomp-not of display. No useless trappings grace his bier ; Nor idle words-they must not say What treasures cluster here. The pomp of nature, wild and free, Adorns our hero's lowly bed ; And gently bends above his head The weeping laurel tree. In glory's day he shunned display, And ye may not bedeck him now; Bri Nature may, in her own way, Hang garlands round his brow. He lies in pomp, not sculptured stone, Nor chiseled marols--- Tain pretence. The glory of his deels alone Is his magnificence. His country's love the meed he won : . He bore it with him down to death, Unsullied e'en by slander's breath-His country's sire and son. Her hopes and fears, her smiles and tears, Were each his own.-He gave his land His earliest cares, his choicest years, And led her conquering band.

He lies in 1 omp-not pomp of war. He fought, but fought not for renewn ; He triumphed, yet the victor's star Adorned no regal crown. His honour was his country's weal; From off her neck the yoke he tore-It was elouch, he asked no more. His generous heart could feel No low desire for king's attire; With brother, friend, and country blest, He could aspire to hole urs higher Than kingly crown or creat

He lies in pomp-his burial-place Than sculptured stone is richer far; For in the heart's deep love we trace His name, a golden star. Wherever patriotism breathes, His memory is devoatly shrined In every pure and sifted mind : And history, with wreaths Of deathless fame, entwines that name, Which evermore, beneath all skies, Like vestal fame, shall live the same; For virtue never dies.

There let him rest-'tis a sweet spot; Simplicity becomes the great-But Vernon's son is not forget, Though sleeping not in state. There, wrapped in his own dignity, His presence makes it hallowed ground, And Nature throws her charms around, And o'er him smiles the sky. There let him rest-the noblest, best; The labours of his life all done-There let him rest, the spot is blessed-The grave of WASHINGTON.

FRIGHTFUL VISITATION .- We have given in another column, some account of the disasters at Cette, but that account appears to have been anything but perfeet in its detail of these sad disasters. The following more accurate statement is contained in a letter from Cette, dated the 22nd ult :-

A frightful misfortune has this afternoon plunged one whole population into a state of consternation and despair. About four o'clock an electric waterspont fell upon the town, and committed such rayages, that at the present moment it might be senposed that the town had been submitted to all the horrors of a sieze. This terrible phenomenon, which prrived in the direction of the Fortress of St. Pierre. skirted the mole in its whole length, and when it came opposite the engineers' establishment, attracted probably by the conductor and the zine roof of the house, it turned round the edifice, and at last fell with violence upon it. At the same moment a violent explosion was heard, and the whole population thought that its last hour was come. During two minutes' space of time a terrific crash resounded in the air. The roofs of the houses were smashed to pieces, and the fragments were carried to the most denounced by the Crown prosecutor, was defended distant part of the town, The building belonging to with great ability by Senor Quievedo, a young adthe engineers has been entirely sacked, its zinc roof side walls. We must really have a word of closer reasoning on this production of the democratic Nation. We will take the precious morsel sentence by sentence. "The Whigs, though out of office are a powerful party"!!! Indeed ! In what ? When, even before they had got their own machinery, were they, as a party, so utterly powerless, so miserably hopeless, so thoroughly despised, and so justly distrusted ! " The TRUCTION. MIND of England is unquestionably in their favour." The MIND of England is the very power that keeps them from office I and that'same MIND has grown in hostility and increased in hate. What does the Nation call the MIND of a country ? Is it that indiscribable nondescript "something," of which no estimate can be made ? or is it a thing which may be denominated a majority of sound thoughts, views and understandings ? And if so, why has so powerfel an agency been so wholly unable to command of England is opposed to Whiggery : and if our cotemporary had taken the trouble to enquire, before he ventured to assert, he would have learned that there is not a party in England that ventures to take the name of Whig. Now as the next sentence is a gem, and confirmatory of the principle. "MEN NOT MEASURES." single yard of that immense heap to his own use! we beg to render undivided attention to it. It runs thus:-" The ministers of the opposing party are constrained to mend their measures, so as TO HAR-MONIZE WITH THAT MIND as their best security for a permanence of power." Now we, not the Nation, have put those seven words in striking characters : and we ask if it would be possible to advance a rising" (according to Mother Goose and the League) stronger argument in favour of Sir ROBT. PEEL'S Government than our cotemporary has thoughtlessly stumbled on ? So, then, we have the fact, or rather the Nation's admission, that Ministers do mould their measures to harmonise with the MIND; that is, the MIND that ought to be represented-" the MIND that is unquestionably in favour of the Whigs." Well, what more does the Nation want than the representation of the MIND of England ? of the WHIG MIND too! Then, in the next sen- in her damask chair, with feet lolling on the tence we are told, that there is nothing to prevent soft hassock, and with philosophic spectacles a combination of English Whigs, and Irish Liberals, on her nose, to do this and act thus; but for us and all this, that, and the other thing. DEOYLSDEN CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY .- Mr. Edward as follows :- A paragraph in your paper of last week, Emanating from the Ashton-under-Line Society of Shoe-Eaters, states that the Manager of the Co-operative Society at Droylsden attempted to reduce the wages of the journeymen employed in that establishment. No such thing was attempted: but one of the journeymen requested to have a seat of work of an inferior description, thinking he could get more money on that description of work than any other. He requested to have the same wages as was paid in Manchester for the same description of work. Therefore your Correspondent was in error when he made that statement. P.S. > IN the Prospectus which the NORTH AMERICAN LAND AGENCY has already published pocket comb, a steel pencil-holder, and a gold watch their views, it is hoped, have been sufficiently explained as regards the promotion of Emigration to key. A number of individuals attracted by the rumour, Lands and Estates, purchased through its intervention in Canada, &o.

The Agents confidently submit, however, that the same views, more fully developed, may be made essentially useful, not only to the unemployed classes in this country, but also to those who are possessed of some capital, though insufficient in amount to secure, of itself, their permanent welfare and prosperity.

It will be admitted that Emigration has heretofore been conducted on a system productive, in the aggregate, of much individual hardship and distress-and especially to the Emigrant of the poorer class; for on arriving at his port of debarkation, he has found himself, generally speaking, with little or no money, and no friends to assist him in procuring work, or even to point out in what part of the Province he would be most likely to obtain it, -- while he who possessed some little capital has met with similar difficulties, in making choice of a location. Canada, though all things considered, perhaps the most ribly: fr. quently ten persons in a room; found no furni. important of our colonies, is virtually a terra incognita-simply because there is no one willing, if able, ture; had not been at any church; no clothing, no fire, to afford the requisite information to those who seek it, and it is this deficiency which it i the aim and object of the Agents effectually to remedy.

There are hundreds in Great Britain anxious to emigrate, but who, from want of sufficient means are deterred from, or unable to do so. To such the Agents can offer facilities heretofore unthought of, and unattainable ; for example :- A man having no more than £100, would not better his situation by emigrating to Canada as an agriculturist-for the purchase of his Land, and the unavoidable preliminary the epidemic attacked one-sixth of the panpers, prin- expenditure thereon, the expence of conveyance thither, and his support, however frugal, until his first cipally spread by wandering bergars ; did not find the crops were gathered in, would absorb more than his entire capital, even under the most favourable epidemic reach the middling and upper classes; at that circumstances. Such a capital, on the contrary, would be found not only sufficient on the plan proposed time more fever in two men'hs than in twelve years by the Agents, as hereafter explained, but at the same time, immunity from the usual hardships and before'; houses damp, low, ill ventilated. Last year, privations would be secured, and to the prudent and industrious a comfortable and permanent competentcy 32,000 persons in fever-twelve per cent of the whole in the future.

The American Captain's version of the aff ir is evidently exaggerated, and contains a great deal of idle bombast, such as the "American flig trampled apon by the British;" "our flag is insulted ; it will cost the English nation dear," &=; and he accuses the Endish Cip'ain of being a coward, and turning pale! His letter is published in the American papers, and duly penned with imposing capitals and notes of admiration. The writer clearly calculated upon the morbid jealousy of his countrymen respecting the right to search suspected slavers, carrying the American flig, and the rhodomontade in which he indulges, however ridiculous it may appear on this side of the Atlantic, has made, and will continue to make, some stir on the other side.
