Although one of his arms was broken to pieces, he raised his head and back out in several places, quickly took up his pipe and began to smoke, which he continued to do till brought to the mouth of the pit; and within a couple of minutes after the amputation of his arm Mr. Grace, old Howard, and the other gentleman present, were all engaged in smoking, receiving no notice of the affirmative, he commenced blowing a cloud out of his short pipe, with the utmost composure.

TRAGICAL STORY.—On the 31st ult., the following curious took place near Gardine, in Corsica. A young man of some property, named Quilichini, had been married to a girl, named Angelica Quilichini, who had promised to marry her, but broke the promise, and married another. A few days afterwards, Angelica, who had procured a pistol, seeing her seducer, went to him, and after a short conversation fired the pistol in his face, mortally wounded and died at the spot. He was buried in haste, and Angelica, who had not been captured when the account last

ORIGIN OF A MODERN ROMANCE.—The town of Rome

ays the Rochester Democrat, containing a population of over 6,000, has been built up by factories for making paddles and oars from the ash, thousands of which are exported almost by every vessel for England, France, Germany, Russia, Sweden, Russia, and throughout all the East. The junks of the Chinese are now all managed by American oars, and the small boats of all Europe and Asia are now propelled by the enterprise of the people of this village.

MINDERS OF AUSTRALIAN DISCOVERIES.—It is feared that the Government will not permit the expedition, in August last, to Mortlock bay, in Australia, for the purpose of exploring an overland route from that place to Port Essington, have been murdered by a party of the natives.

THE CABINET.—We understand that all the members of the Cabinet will re-assemble in town at the close of the month.

DECLINE OF THE COACHES.—The Brighton, Hove-
m, and London Victoria coach has ceased running and to the above places.

THE PIGU PLAT is patronized by more of the first males in the land. The economy derived from the CORNS AND BUNIONS.—It is a well-known fact that the majority of corns and bunions is more universal than is generally supposed. It is a disease which is so rankling in its effects, and so unsuited to growth with which it is attended, that it is almost always the cause of all maladies it is also the most painful and intolerant. To find some remedy for the cure, or at least the amelioration thereof, has called forth the exertions of many of the most eminent members of the medical profession. Of those of modern times, who have laboured hard, and at this grand point of deterioration than the proprietor of "Every Man's Friend," and the success which has happily attended his exertions, after many years of elaborate study, may be estimated from the fact that hundreds of medical men have not only themselves received the benefit therefrom, but they invariably recommend it to their friends and patients. It is generally used by the Royal College of Surgeons, and the in, in fact, by all ranks and conditions, from the peasant on the throne to the peasant in his cottage, and all acknowledge its efficacy and value. Its fame has daily become more extensively diffused, and it is now used to a great extent on the continent: even the Chinese, notwithstanding their prejudices, have not hesitated to seek relief from their ailments by means of Dr. Friend's Friend is sold by all respectable Chemists and Medicine Vendors, in every town throughout the United Kingdom, in boxes at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. each.

COPY OF A LETTER SENT TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWSPAPER THE NEW ENGLAND TIMES.—Sir,—I hereby certify that I had been, for a number of years, labouring under a most painful and distressing complaint for the cure of which many receipts were unsuccessfully prescribed; that having seen an advertisement in the New England Times, and Thence to the charity of the Hills Mills and Ointment in this Island, I was induced to purchase a box of the Pills and give them a fair trial and am happy to certify, thus publicly, that shortly after I took the Pills I found myself gradually getting better, and am now perfectly recovered. I can, therefore, safely recommend the medicine to the public. JAMES HENRY STARES, Cherry Gardens, St John's, July 11, 1844.

The Perth Courier recently stated that a man was advised by a female doctor in the neighbourhood to rub his chest with turpentine, before going to bed, and the morning he awoke he found himself cured of the rheumatism. He would be obliged for the assistance of this wife to rub the upper portion of his body, but while doing so, she accidentally allowed the lighted candle to come in contact with the turpentine which had been placed upon the body, consequently he became

I have not loved the world, nor the world me,—
But let us part fair foes: I do believe,
Though I have found them not, that there may be
Words which are things,—hopes which will not deceive,
And virtues which are merciful, nor weave Snakes for the falling: I would also deem Use others' grifts that come sincerely given;
That two, or one, are almost what they seem;
That goodness is no name, and happiness no dream.
