Address, WALTER DE ROOPE, No. 10, Broadway, New York.

Imperial Parliament

On the morning of the 23rd of June he was at Vauxhall-gardens, and as he was passing into the Rotunda he felt a pressure against his breast, and a man like the prisoner, but wearing monastic robes, made over free and independent choice of their representatives be filled by persons of that description. The noble lord had said there was no real seniority existing in the present qualification; but he illustrated it in a very extraordinary manner, because the noble lord said that any person of credit or connexions had no difficulty in obtaining a qualification; but if a man had such an amount of credit, or such connexions,
